March Quarter Highlights

- NTCELL production to be commenced in Australia for first time, following Research Agreement with University of Technology Sydney for use of university facilities
- Services Agreement signed with New Zealand biotech NZeno for it to breed and maintain pigs to provide tissue for third clinical trial of NTCELL in Parkinson's disease
- LCT ends quarter in solid cash position, with bank balance of A$3.5 million.

Sydney, Australia & Auckland, New Zealand – 29 April 2022 – Living Cell Technologies (ASX: LCT) announced today its Activity and Cashflow (Appendix 4C) Report for the quarter ended 31 March 2022, highlighted by the planned first production of NTCELL in Australia as part of the Company's third clinical trial of NTCELL in Parkinson's disease. (Appendix 4C follows).

NTCELL

The third clinical trial of NTCELL in Parkinson's disease made further advances during the quarter with planned key milestones achieved.

On 24 January 2022, the Company announced the signing of a Services Agreement with New Zealand-based biotech NZeno for it to breed and maintain pigs to provide tissue for the Company's third clinical trial of NTCELL in Parkinson's disease.

The agreement with NZeno includes the establishment of a dedicated suite at NZeno's facility in New Zealand for the housing of pigs, to be used for the clinical supply of porcine choroid plexus tissue to LCT, together with a surgical facility and maintenance of a dedicated herd of Auckland Island derived pigs.

In another key milestone, on 30 March 2022 the Company announced the signing of a Research Agreement with the University of Technology Sydney (UTS) and also the Australian Foundation for Diabetes Research (AFDR).

The UTS agreement will allow university facilities to be used to optimise the production of NTCELL in Australia for the first time, prior to the third clinical trial. Once approved by import authorities, porcine brain tissue (choroid plexus) will be shipped to Sydney from NZeno's pig facility in Invercargill, New Zealand.

Once the Australian production process of NTCELL has been optimised at UTS, the tissue will be sent to a Good Manufacturing Practice (GMP) facility, where it will be manufactured under conditions suitable for it to be used clinically.

Approval for the use of the encapsulated pig tissue will need to be obtained from a Human Research Ethics Advisory Committee and the Therapeutic Goods Administration.

The NTCELL clinical trial for people with early to mid-stage Parkinson's disease is likely to be the first xenotransplantation trial carried out in Australia after earlier trials in New Zealand.

The first trial participants are expected to receive treatment in 2024.

More than 10 million people worldwide are living with Parkinson's disease, including 1 in every 308 Australians, with the disease costing the Australian community an estimated $10 billion per year. Globally, the Parkinson's disease market is projected to reach US$11.5 billion by 2029, up from US$5.7 billion in 2022.

About NTCELL

NTCELL is an alginate coated capsule containing clusters of neonatal porcine choroid plexus cells that are sourced from a unique herd of designated pathogen-free pigs bred from stock originally discovered in the remote sub-Antarctic Auckland Islands. Choroid plexus cells are naturally occurring 'support' cells for the brain and secrete cerebrospinal fluid (CSF), which contains a range of factors that support nerve cell functions and protective enzymes that are crucial for nerve growth and healthy functioning. In NTCELL, the porcine choroid plexus cells are coated with alginate to protect them from attack by the immune system. Therefore, no immunosuppressive regimen needs to be administered to recipients.
